I really love stories and have a profound appreciation for storytellers - people who have the gift of narration. My Mom, Grammy, and Uncle Mark have this gift and the uncanny ability to do all the voices in stories.

When I say "voices" I mean they can do the accents as good if not better than anyone on Audible.

Then Brer Rabbit stuck his head up from inside the briar patch and shouted, "You must have forgotten, Brer Fox, that I was born and bred in the briar patch! Finest place for a rabbit that there ever could be!" With those words, he scampered off, happy to have escaped from both Brer Fox and the Tar Baby. (photo by Joe Penniston)

Brer Rabbit hollered out, "Born and bred in the briar patch. I was born and bred in the briar patch!" And with that he skipped out just as lively as a cricket in the embers of a fire. Martyrs are the most honored of all God's children. Those willing to give their very lives for the One Who died for them shall be honored throughout eternity.
