A History of Philosophy is a history of Western philosophy written by the English Jesuit priest Frederick Charles Copleston originally published in nine volumes between 1946 and 1975. As is noted by The Encyclopedia Britannica, the work became a "standard introductory philosophy text for thousands of university students, particularly in its U.S. paperback edition." Since 2003 it has been marketed as an eleven volume work with two previously published other works by Copleston being added to the s

Synopsis. Copleston, an Oxford Jesuit and specialist in the history of philosophy, first created his history as an introduction for Catholic ecclesiastical seminaries. However, since its first publication (the last volume appearing in the mid-1970s) the series has become the classic account for all philosophy scholars and students. The 11-volume series gives an accessible account of each philosopher's work, but also explains their relationship to the work of other philosophers.

Frederick Copleston's eleven volume history of philosophy is highly respected and rightly so. Unlike many philosophers Copleston does not use his writing as a way of imposing his own views on the reader but of faithfully expressing the views of the philosphers of whom he writes. Copleston started life as an Anglican, converted to Catholicism and, aged 23, became a Jesuit.
