Minimum expenditure of energy is the criterion of simplicity and efficiency in any yogic activity. Vigorous movements consume more energy, while static activities consume less energy. Early morning is the ideal time for yoga practice but it can also be practiced in the evening. Bathing before the practice is good. Use cold or warm water as per the requirement of the individual and season. Know more about Yoga principles at the following link: http://yoga.org.nz/what-is-yoga/yoga_principles.htm
