"Leading with a Limp" is not your basic, cafeteria-brand manual on how to 'do' leadership. It is a call to openly face your shortcomings as a leader. Dan Allender reminds us that our greatest asset as leaders is not our competence but the courage to name and deal with our frailties and imperfections.

The preceding quotes come from Dan Allender's Leading with a Limp: Take Full Advantage of Your Most Powerful Weakness. I have found myself attempting to share similar ideas. I've always said a leader who is eager for position and power, does not really comprehend what leadership is all about.

Leading With A Limp - NoSuperHeroes

God favors leaders who make the most of the power that comes from brokenness. Go ahead and take full advantage of your flaws. The most effective leaders don't rise to power in spite of their weakness; they lead with power because of their weakness. It is their authenticity in limping leadership that compels others to follow them.
