We're going to be knitting a few rows and then folding them over so we can get a thick, doubled over bit of knitting. This makes the hat look more finished and also helps keep the hat in place on your head. Decide how wide you want your brim to be (I always do between 2-3 inches) and keep knitting until the length of your work is double the width you want the brim to be. For me, this was about 15 rows of knitting. P.S.
