Promoting Continence Using Prompted Voiding

Timed Voiding and Bladder Training are about teaching you to regain voluntary control over your bladder. At least to begin, don't try doing it overnight, just do it during the day. Timed Voiding starts by going to the toilet before you get the urge, on the clock, even if you don't feel like you need to pass urine.

Timed Voiding and Bladder Training | Continence Matters

February 12, 2014. Prompted voiding has been shown in research to be an effective means of control and management of urinary incontinence (UI) in older patients. This therapeutic model involves prompts by the caregiver to consistently timed visits to the restroom (for instance, once every 2 hours). As opposed to timed voiding, in which the patient regulates his or her own schedule, prompted voiding is most often applied in settings such as long-term care, where patients have impaired ...
