I have a Murray Spirit 8hp 24-inch snowblower with electric start we bought used a few years ago. I've had issues with it off and on, and have been able to get it to run, albeit poorly, in seasons past, but I can't get it running this year. If I spray carb cleaner in via the choke, it fires up, burns that up, and dies. I drained the fuel and put fresh(-ish) gas in, with no success. I don't ...

I have a Spirit Snowblower with an electric start which is powered by a Tecumseh 8 hp motor. It won't start. The key is in, the throttle is full. And I think the choke is full to the right. I put some marginal gas in it but it does not fire at all. The plug looks okay.
