A soul is not immortal by nature, or it could not experience death. Jesus, declared, in Matthew 10:28, “And fear not them which kill the body ... but rather fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell .”. The soul will die in the fires of hell. Therefore, man is mortal. The word “immortal” is found only once in the Bible, and it is in reference to God alone (1 Timothy 1:17).

In reality, according to the philosophy of spiritualists; man consists of spirit and body. The spirit is immortal and does not decay by death, and we can examine Islamic sources that affirm it. In the materialistic mind, the individual consists only of the "body," which is destroyed with death, as a functioning mechanism and its decomposition mean the everlasting destruction of his identity.

Man begins his organizational efforts by classifying things in groupings according to his understanding of those things. He learns to make associations on the basis of identity and similarity. He then learns to make disassociations on the basis of differences and, finally, opposites. Man organizes his thoughts, his time, his physical possessions.

According to Edouard Machery, the concept of human nature is an outgrowth of folk biology and in particular, the concept of folk essentialism - the tendency of ordinary people to ascribe essences to kinds. Machery argues that while the idea that humans have an "essence" is a very old idea, the idea that all humans have a unified human nature is relatively modern; for a long time, people thought of humans as "us versus them" and thus did not think of human beings as a unified kind.
