THE NEUTRAL: Lecture Course at the College de France (1977-1978) Roland Barthes. translated by Rosalind E. Krauss and Denis Hollier. Columbia University Press ($24.50) by Spencer Dew. What if, wonders Roland Barthes, in response to one of those "large, pompous, arrogant, pedantic questions" which so dominate intellectual and especially academic life—"Is there a writing specific to women and a writing specific to men?" "Do you think that the writer seeks truth?" "Do you ...

The Neutral Quotes by Roland Barthes - Goodreads

But this turns out not to work well and there are really two main problems of this the first is that the inputs and outputs can be different lengths and different examples. So, it's not as if every single example had the same input length T_x or the same upper length T_y and maybe if every sentence has a maximum length.
