We Often Condemn Myth as a Pack of Lies. While myths are stories shared by a group that are a part of their cultural identity, there is no completely satisfactory definition of the term. People compare myth with science and religion. Usually, this comparison is unfavorable and myth is relegated to the area of lies.

But the treatment of the question here has far more to do with a myth—that science is showing that human consciousness is not exceptional—than it does with unraveling the mystery of human or corvid consciousness. That said, one science writer offers an interesting tidbit that impacts the current Darwinian theory of evolution:
