About The Secret Footprints. The Dominican legend of the ciguapas, creatures who lived in underwater caves and whose feet were on backward so that humans couldn't follow their footprints, is reinvented by renowned author Julia Alvarez. Although the ciguapas fear humans, Guapa, a bold and brave ciguapa, can't help but be curious—especially about a boy she sees on the nights when she goes on the land to hunt for food.

The ciguapas are a secret tribe who live underwater "in cool blue caves hung with seashells and seaweed" and venture onto land only at night because they are so afraid of humans. Their unusual anatomy helps preserve their hidden existence—their feet are on backward, so that "when they walked on land, they left footprints going in the opposite directions."

The Secret Footprints - Alvarez 4 stars Beautiful illustrations of a Dominican legend. I'd never heard of the mythical ciguapas before. Guapa, the bold and beautiful, is an antidote to Andersen's little mermaid. She doesn't allow her curious fascination with humans to lure her away from life she is meant to live.

While walking on the beach one day I found a remarkable fossil that looked exactly like a footprint. It was very small, about 3/4th of an inch in length. Instantly it reminded me of the beautiful short story "Footprints in the Sand". I carefully placed my newfound treasure in my pocket to take home. When...
