Wesley Wisdom ~~The Wesleyan Quadrilateral Scripture Tradition~~

The Wesleyan Quadrilateral, or Methodist Quadrilateral, is a methodology for theological reflection that is credited to John Wesley, leader of the Methodist movement in the late 18th century. The term itself was coined by 20th century American Methodist scholar Albert C. Outler.. This method based its teaching on four sources as the basis of theological and doctrinal development. These four ...

Wesleyanism consists of "the theology based upon the views of John Wesley (1703 – 1791), founder of Methodism." [1] The Wesleyan Quadrilateral is an epistemological paradigm in which the derivation of theology is understood and the authority of its components ordered. The phrase itself was derived by Wesleyan theologian Albert Outler, who upon examining the corpus of Wesley, argued that the evangelist affirmed four valid sources of theology; Scripture, reason, tradition and experience.

One of the concepts I've found most helpful in my own practice of theology is the Wesleyan Quadrilateral. It was articulated by Albert C. Outler to describe the theological method of John Wesley, and it names four authorities for Christian theology: Scripture, Tradition, Reason, and Experience. Outler emphasizes that scripture is the primary and ultimate authority (and has said that he ...

It is my account of what is called a "Neo-Wesleyan" view of the primacy of Scripture interpreted through the hermeneutical lenses of tradition, reason, and experience. (Note: I think it's a bit silly to call this "Neo-Wesleyan" considering it was discussed only 20 years after the creation of the Wesleyan Quadrilateral--again people, John Wesley DID NOT invent the concept of the ...

~~The Wesleyan Quadrilateral: Scripture as the PRIMARY ...~~

The four normative sources for doing theology have been described as the Wesleyan quadrilateral--Scripture, tradition, reason, and experience. The author shows that for Wesley the Protestant concept of "Scripture alone" entails the view that the Scriptures are the primary source, not the only source, of theology.

How to Use the Wesleyan Quadrilateral: Part II. In Part I, I mentioned the 4 elements of the Wesleyan Quadrilateral: Scripture, Tradition, Reason, and Experience. Now I shall explain how each part works and what sort of information you can draw out to make a good theological conclusion. I will include an example of a paper I wrote on the doctrine of "Original Sin".

~~How to Use the Wesleyan Quadrilateral: Part II - Seth Tan~~

Although he was not a systematic theologian, Wesley developed a system called the Wesleyan Quadrilateral which he held was an honest way to evaluate one's faith. The quadrilateral is, as the name implies, made up of four blocks: Scripture, tradition, experience, and reason. All four play a role in the development of a person's theological system.
